
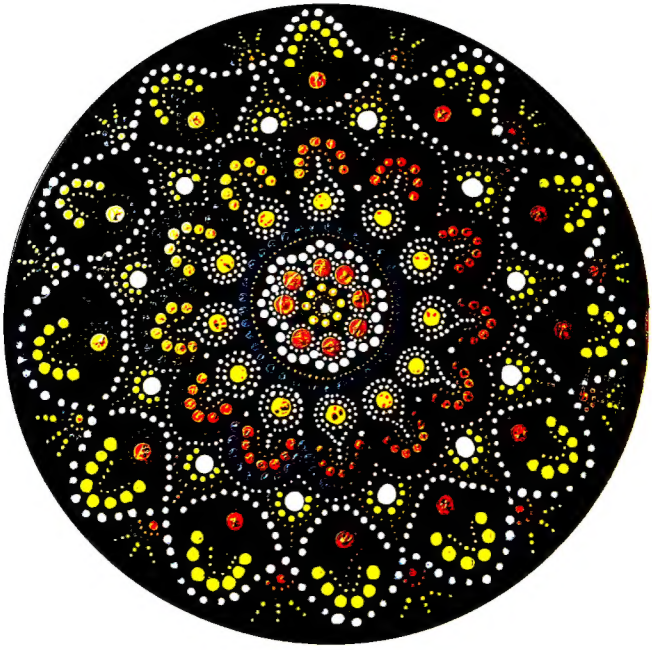
a book of haiku
and micro poems

biswajit mishra



Copyright © 2026 Biswajit Mishra

All rights reserved. This book or any portion thereof may not be reproduced or used in any manner whatsoever without the express written permission of the publishers, except for the use of brief quotations in a book review.

ISBN: 9798258482242

Cover Art by Dr. Sukanya Neupane

NUN PROPHET PRESS

Dedicated

to my departed parents Rangadhar and Urmila, who brought the clay out and to my high school teacher Sri Maheswar Rana who broke the mold

Praise for

NOTHING MATTERS

Biswajit is a highly accomplished haiku poet known for his creative and experimental use of imagery. He aptly titles his collection "Nothing Matters." The collection showcases a diverse range of forms, including one-line haiku, parallel haiku, concrete haiku, micropoems, experimental poetry, and haiga. It reminds me of the classic essay, "The Shape of Things to Come: Form Past and Future in Haiku," by Jim Kacian. Biswajit justifies with his skillful wording: "aQUESTIONswerS," and I feel "Everything Matters" in the contemporary structural form with artistic impact. He is at his best with the monoku when he transcends human-centric poetic energy: "the son I was my son." Biswajit is philosophical when he pens, "minutes waiting from one end to the other of seconds." The art of brevity and inventiveness adds wisdom to the words: "time tunes / shapeshifting / days dunes." Expressing gratitude to nature and mindfulness of life, the poet expresses: "fistful of monsoon / I count/ my blessings." Indeed, the resonance would continue to linger beyond the finishing line: "none the less owned home."

– Pravat Kumar Padhy, Ph.D Touchstone Award for Individual Poems Panelist

a book of haiku
and micro poems

biswajit mishra

Introduction

DEVIDUTTA BISWABHARATI

Age 12: I write a poem for a class in school. I call it The Laws of Nature. Something about how certain things are "fundamentally wrong", as if they are "outlawed by nature". Think: murder, deceit, villainy. My teacher likes it. I excitedly bring it home to show papa (dad). He likes it too, but he asks some follow-up questions.

"Why do you say they are laws of nature?"

"Well, aren't they? Didn't you teach me that killing is bad?"

"Sure, but according to whom?"

Age 16: I write another poem, this one particularly angsty. Something about wanting to be remembered despite not feeling like I have achieved any form of greatness. In it, I pose the question (inspired by Macbeth): "Is life just a brief candle?". This time papa writes one in response:

Life is just the river bed; it stays where it is and the water of time flows through it.

Age 23: Inspired by a long-awaited trip I take to India, papa writes a poem describing his anticipation for my journey. The second-hand excitement for an opportunity for me to rediscover distant roots. On the flight back home, I write an accompanying poem from my point of view. Of everything I learned during my trip. As I write, I begin to understand him more too. I paint images of his childhood from brushstrokes of my own upbringing.

Age 27: Reading through the pages of this book, I am reminded of years of learning from papa. I don't want to call them lessons, as it doesn't capture the spirit of his teachings. Maybe they would more accurately be described as his observations. Observations on:

Morality
Whimsy
Beauty
Purpose (and many times the lack-of)
Emotion
Curiosity
Boredom
Inspiration
Excitement
Adventure
Grief
Nature

I hope you enjoy the following poems written by my father, and can truly experience them without the burden of feeling like anything needs to matter.

...deep dive into midnight oil...

aQUESTIONswerS

potter's wheel the dirt and I
in form

every tide
wets me
shore sand

no in yes in vase in water cut flowers minutes waiting from one end to the other of seconds all that thunders in the manhole past growing interest

...nulled by coffee grounds only V in the departing geese fall begins surrounded by stalks

a scarecrow

fall ing

in to w i n t e r

distant

p e a k s f l u

r r

i e s

driving through the night

some will hold

some will let go
night flurries

long night

every clock tick claws out a piece of the rest

midnight a tree hole

musings awaiting

ceaseless sunrise

super moon
rising

too close too cold

just above a wheelbarrow

shining snow banks

behind murky ridges

what you get from the slush pile

cold cuts hot pursuit

this cold December night

some lights still on

ours translucent
under eavestrough

storms somewhere seem growing

not visible
to eyes

sibilant simmer inside head

stuck

a c r a c
k

in a deep sheet of ice not yet but still who knows halfway

...from the world of ten thousand things reflecting...

dis (

the se

ill US

arch

ion

for men

the R iGHT

b. O. O. k

on

)

t

the setting sun at the head of the bike path blinds me
the same way I look in awe at acquiring knowledge gaslighting :: solar eclipse limiting infinity myths sitting within cross legged sitting still full of things trapped without a verb rime frost exhausting everyone else on the treadmill too fast

one way highway one after the other awaiting their turn

triage who's going to be called next

veryday

xisting

time tunes

shapeshifting

days dunes

conch story susurration
of the ocean

s(ee)ing past the moonless night a gre(at)y owl moonless night

I return
to myself

complete thaw

there is nothing else to prove stillness	stillness	stillness	s maybe	briefly	seriously	t the verb		i

by	on	in	l
the bed	the bed	the bed	.
			.
			.
			.

new move
dismantling furniture with creaking joints

a room with a view beyond the fence up summer dreams

a caterpillar enters pupation

s p i l u
t

p
u

e d i
s
n w o
d

y
t
i v
a
r
g

g
n
i m
a
e
r
d
y
a
d

a house finch calls the door side lilac too wakes up

growing days poplar buds awaken
a frozen pond

spring breeze
a kite rises above the temple bells

hiking the mountain and I hold our ground

peak summer
the city park full

of. ...bbbbb<>^^^ BB b~~>>B..iii)...
II..rrrrRRR,,,,rrrrr..dddDD Ddd .#####ccc..CCc
caaaaAAaaalllLL##

.....lllllllLLLLL.....llllllll... sssSSs.....SSSSssssS...,,,,,, uninterrupted by attention wildflowers

everything plays into everything creeping thistles

nothing matters
in the empty soccer field clovers

fistful of monsoon
I count
my blessings

some story how we flow back to future palimpsest

my father leaves behind me[1]

the son I was my son

[1] Leaf Journal of the Daily Haiku just letting me know I am here clock ticks none the less owned home

Check out these other Nun Prophet titles!

BREVITY – Noah Berlatsky

CARAVAN – Melissa Dennison

DELTA LENSCAPES – Jianqing Zheng

FIRST DAY OF THE REST – Chin & Hough

FOUR HORSE PARABLE – John Hawkhead

FURY OF MY FART – Adjei Agyei-Baah

HUSHPUPPY – Kelly Moyer

MANSIONS OF THE MOON – Kathy Watts

THE MASK OF MATSUSHIMA – Tim Gardiner

MOTHER POMEGRANATE – Kelly Moyer

POURING LIGHT ON THE HILLS – Chin & Onyedikam

PRESSED BETWEEN PALMS – Adele Evershed

RAISING EYEBROWS – Susan Burch

RICE AND BEANS – Jerome Berglund

ROSE PERIWINKLES – Vipanjeet Kaur

THE SUN SETS TWICE – Tim Gardiner

VARIATIONS ON THE PLANETS – Ettinger & Gilbert

WAITING FOR AN ORACLE – petro c.k.

Biswajit Mishra is a bilingual poet writing mostly in English and occasionally in Odia. His poems have appeared in magazines including Frogpond, Modern Haiku, Heron's Nest, Canada Haiku Review, Presence, The Other Bunny, One Art Haiku Anthology, Cattails, Asahi Haiku Network, and Triveni Haiku Katha. Mishra's poems have won awards and honorable mentions. Biswajit was born in India and lived in Kenya for a few years. He and his wife Bharati currently live in Calgary, Canada.

MISHRA'S CHAPBOOK IS RATHER LOVELY. I ENJOY THE WAY HE EXPERIMENTS. IT'S AVANT GARDE AND ALSO A LITTLE SPIRITUAL, EXISTENTIAL, HUMOROUS AND PLAYFUL. I LIKE HOW HE PLAYS WITH REPETITION.

- MELISSA DENNISON, CO-HOST RE:VIRALS

BRIDGING MOMENTS STEEPED IN WAITING, LIKE SEEDS IN A FARMER'S HAND, BISWAJIT CATCHES THE READER OFF GUARD WITH PLAYFUL BUT PRECISE ATTENTION TO FORM AND THE SPACES IN BETWEEN.

- LUKE BRANNON, EDITOR 5HAIKUSPOKEN, CONTRIBUTOR PRUNE JUICE